

NEIMAN MARCUS ROOSEVELT FIELD

Garden City, New York

Client: Neiman Marcus

Elkus Manfredi Architects was the design architect for a new Neiman Marcus department store at the Roosevelt Field Mall on Long Island. The new store consists of 100,000 square feet on two stories, and seamlessly connects to the main mall by an extension of the galleria circulation path at the ground and second floors. It is designed with the necessary structural capacity for the addition of an eventual third floor.

The design for this new store represents the client's vision for an exciting, contemporary, modern renovation to the existing mall that refreshes the Neiman Marcus brand and appropriately responds with a fresh new design aesthetic for the Roosevelt Field location.

